

DREAMS

What is happening in people's alternate worlds?

Nomaris Garcia Rivera

This Zine is a collection of dreams some people have had in the past few weeks during the quarantine security measures due to COVID-19. These dreams are presented anonymously, only including the dreamer's initials and age.

Some of the dreams have been translated from spanish to english, some brackets are there to indicate that other brackets are for smoother transitions or clarifications.

Due to the collection process being through online social platforms they are edited for grammatical purposes and to exclude phrases such as "I remember" or "It was very strange" since these are repetative, exceptions were made to keep such phrases if necessary for the context of the dream.

I had broken glass in my mouth and I had to spit it up without hurting myself so I was just spitting up shards of glass really carefully, it was gross and scary.

One of my high school theater friends randomly showed up at my college campus and I somehow convinced her to audition for my college that same day at random and she started doing a monologue for an acting professor and then it sort of turned into a film shoot where I was a background actor and she was the main character but I had class in a few minutes and I didn't know how to tell the acting professor that I had to go to class without interrupting the shoot.

[I was] going around some abstract place while attempting to maintain staying six feet apart from people — yes, it's seeped into my dreams.

My cousin and I were roaming the countryside of some unknown place.

Hanna just made fun of me for an hour.

I wore Gabe's AirMaxes and rode my bike
in them.

I had sex with Aloe and then my MSC bike flew off a Midtown West, Citizen.

I was at a party at my house because I was being convicted of some sort of crime that I didn't do, and then there was a puppy that fell through a window and I got really scared but he was okay because he somehow got into a different window and was okay.

My mom made me use cocaine, [and] was in a dystopian version [of my highschool] where we studied in tunnels.

There was a secret society that had something to do with children that I joined and during my mission I had to climb this big wooden structure with other undercover people.

I was in this big fancy office building and I went to the fancy basement by mistake, there was a guy just murdering girls and I went to help one of the girls so I got blood on my shirt but I heard him so I just went to the elevator, then [I arrived to another floor] and I was trying to cover up my blood stains [with my coat and when the elevator doors opened in came one of the] Olsen twins and a girl from elementary [that I literally have not seen in more than 10 years]. [The] Olsen twin was talking to me super normal [but the girl from elementary school] didn't even wanna look at me. [When I walked out] it was like winter time [but] everyone was wearing summer clothes.

I had a dream about some sort of ancestral trauma like I was watching it happen and I know they were related to me but I don't remember what happened.

A little girl who was in a relationship with a grown man and she was trying to leave and it was so scary because he literally stalked her and was so violent and she was like 10-years-old.

Well [I've] dreamt of my wedding, [in another one] I was receiving an award, I was a singer in one and one time I was in a car accident. [My sister and I] dreamt of the award at the same time (I was the one receiving the award [in hers too]).

I had a dog named Brent and people kept feeding him wine, it was in the dining ballroom of an Italian restaurant.

I was swimming in a lake by my house and there were shrinking kids and there were two moms there, I was a parent, and there was no particular look for the kids.

[I] was back in my old primary school building and two of my childhood friends were there. We had to find a way out of the locked building.

We were scared but we weren't sure what for. There was only one door unlocked and it led down the ramp on the side of the building.

The ramp kept changing levels so we struggled to move down it and keep balanced. That was all I remember, it didn't really have a start or end and not a lot of dialogue that was memorable enough!

[I] was at a music festival and I was wandering around looking for my friend who I lost and then gave up and walked into this trailer where the 1975 were performing.

Some of [my dreams] have been about the virus, like I remember trying to get a plane back home in one of them and the person at the airport was like “Sorry there are no more flights.” and then I had to get on a bus.

I had a really vivid one that Olivia [my friend and previous roommate] and this random girl Angela from like 3rd grade got assigned a triple dorm room to live in [with me] and I wasn't too happy about Angela because she didn't even go to our school and [I] didn't like her much in elementary school. We were trying to organize the furniture so it wasn't super cramped. In quarantine I've been having dreams grounded a lot more in reality.
